

Ways Over Water - a history of Thames Crossings

Wednesday, 12th April at 10.30 on Zoom

The crossings of the Thames, fords, ferries and bridges, have played a vital part in the history of our area. In this illustrated presentation, Steve Capel-Davies will consider the development of these crossings from Roman times to the present, and their impact on local communities. We are fortunate indeed that Steve is willing to share his knowledge and enthusiasm with us. As a river engineer, he has had a life time's involvement with the Thames, during which time he has developed a great interest in all aspects of its history. This has been helped by his involvement with the running of the Wallingford Museum, and the Historical and Archaeological Society for over 30 years.
